S. WILLIS, Chairman Retail Committee.

LET'S PULL TOGETHER.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO, the little village of Crossfield was founded in the midst of a ranchers paradise, where the grass grew long and the cattle grew sleek and fat; surrounded by ranchers with herds of the finest cattle and droves of the best horses, where range was free and open and the famous Western hospitality greeted every new-comer.

Into this land of promise came settlers from all parts of the world, knowing full well that land that would produce such grass, would also grow wheat, oats and barley, that the district was suitable for the build-up of prosperous farm homes, that would be surrounded, not only by fields of grain, but by dairy and beef cattle, sheep and hogs and all the activities that make a real mixed farming Community.

Their faith has been justified. Throughout all the years in which we have seen the extremes in wet and drouth, we have never had a complete failure. Hard times—yes. Depression—yes. Lack of faith—never.

From this district have gone out men who have become famous in the military world, executives of big business, champions in the realms of sport, and breeders of the best stock and grain on the continent.

During all these years, what of the little village? Through good years and bad, it's merchants and town-folk have carried on, giving the best service possible at all times, prospering when the community prospered, and suffering when it suffered. Knowing full well that the village is the show-window of the district, (the first sight that greets the newcomer) they have ever endeavoured to keep the village inviting and progressive.

To this end fully modern stores are conducted, educational facilities are exceptionally good; offering complete High School courses, religious denominations are amply represented with four churches, fraternal societies are active, a well kept park and childrens playground is maintained, hockey and curling rinks add to the enjoyment of the winter season, a live Board of Trade is functioning all the time for the good of the community.

All in all, Crossfield is a good town in a good district. Lets pull together and keep it that way.
W. LAUT, Secretary, Crossfield School.

NATURE having endowed this District with a bountiful harvest inspires the Crossfield merchants to make the joyous picture complete for you folkses with a "Big crop of Real Values". Your share awaits you BUY NOW. To buy now is to SAVE! Remember prices will soon be going up.

VILLAGE OF CROSSFIELD.

IT IS INDEED a far cry to the day that Crossfield first came into being, 1902, with its few buildings an hotel, one store, postoffice, lumber yard, and railroad station.

Our first school was built in 1904, and in 1907 we became incorporated as a village, with the late Dr. Bishop as Mayor.

In 1908 the Canadian Bank of Commerce opened its present Branch.

The many years have brought many changes, residents have come and gone, many of the old frame buildings have been purged by fire, in their place Brick and Stucco buildings have arisen.

Enterprise predominates and it is interesting to note that the local Merchants and business men are going a step further and keeping in line with the times by sponsoring a Special Goodwill Shopping Campaign and feel that accorded the support this step merits everyone should be brought that much closer together in a spirit of goodwill and Friendship which is so much needed today.

The Village Council is always ready and willing to support any worthy movement which they consider is of benefit to the Village as a whole.

In concluding I wish the Merchants every success in this undertaking, the two days of GOODWILL Shopping and other attractions, on November 5 and 6 and trust that the citizens of both Village and the surrounding Districts will co-operate in making this venture an Annual Event.

W. J. WOOD Mayor.

BOARD OF TRADE.

AS PRESIDENT of the Crossfield and District Board of Trade, I take great pleasure in extending an invitation to the residents of the Crossfield and surrounding Districts to visit Crossfield on the occasion of its first Goodwill Shopping Days and also to partake of the many attractions which have been added to the money saving features of the Local Merchants.

The Retail Merchants Section of the Board of Trade are sponsoring this movement, with one hundred per cent co-operation of Merchants and Business men. It is for each one of us as citizens of the Community to give our support to this Enterprise on the part of the Local Business Men. A shopping Sale such as this shows that our merchants are desirous of co-operating with the citizens, which means so much to the general welfare and progress of the community as a whole.

It might not be out of place at this time to state that our local board as it now stands was inaugurated in 1930, and will shortly be in its ninth year.

As the most important community organization, we may feel justly proud of what it has accomplished in furthering the interests of the District during its years of existence, which include [1] A community SPIRIT (much needed in the district) [2] Sponsored School Fair for first two years [3] The maintaining of the Village Park. A credit to any town or city. [4] Agricultural Field Days and Goodwill visits with other Boards [5] The bringing of noted Speakers to the meetings.

Five committees handle the affairs which are as follows: Public Affairs; Retail Merchants; Agriculture; Entertainment; and Sports.

As loyal citizens to your community in which you live and make your homes, I appeal to you that you will give the local merchants your full support and consideration in this new venture of Goodwill to their fellow citizens.

T. TREDAWAY, President.

Seeding From The Skies

Intiguing to the farmers of the prairie provinces, to say the least, is the information that in Soviet Russia grain and grass seed is being planted at the rate of 400 acres an hour by the use of aeroplanes and still more alluring is the suggestion that this method could "easily be used" to seed the broad fields of the wide open spaces in Western Canada.

Both information and suggestion were promulgated by J. A. Stiles, O.B.E., Executive Commissioner of the Boy Scouts in Canada and former Dean of Applied Science at the University of Fredericton, New Brunswick, at a recent luncheon meeting in Regina. He volunteered the additional information that this method of seeding grain as adopted in Russia has the advantage of making it possible to seed fields covered with snow or mixed after rains.

While evidence must be given to the Dean's statement that this practice has been, or is being, adopted in Russia, a good deal more information as to the conditions under which this operation is carried out and the results achieved therefrom before due weight could be given to his correlated suggestion that the Canadian west lends itself to this method of seeding grain, principally because of the flatness of the country "landings could be made easily."

On the face of it there must necessarily be many factors, other than ease of landing, before this system of seeding could be pronounced a feasible plan for the Western Canadian farmer as a general thing.

For instance, it would be interesting to know whether in Russia the method has been adopted only in one or two isolated instances where special circumstances and conditions conspired to make it a feasibility, economic and otherwise as, for example, on one of those large collectivist farms where the area is measured in square miles rather than in acres, and whether even on these huge farms the method is only in an experimental stage or was used as an emergency measure to speed up production in accord with a government quota.

It would be interesting, too, to know the results of the work carried on in Russia with an aeroplane travelling perhaps at 100 miles an hour or more blasting seed over the countryside in large quantities. Is it possible to broadcast seed in this manner from the fast travelling motor-propelled vehicle somewhere between earth and clouds without wasting large quantities of seed? Can grain seeded this way be distributed thinly and evenly as it can be by a horse-drawn or even a tractor-drawn drill?

These are some of the questions the Western Canadian farmer would like to have answered before he would be prepared to nod acquiescence to the good Dean's suggestion that such a method could easily be applied in this country.

And even if these questions were answered favorably to the plan and to the satisfaction of the interrogator, there are others which would have to be answered satisfactorily before the Western Canadian farmer could be expected to warmly espouse the Dean's somewhat novel suggestion.

It is obvious, for instance, that the average three quarter section or section farmer could not afford to purchase an aeroplane to seed his crop, for that would be the only agricultural operation for which it could be used, except perhaps spray the fields with insecticide or poison bait. The cost would be prohibitive in proportion to the return, no matter how good the yield and how high the price of grain. If it is to be adopted, therefore, it would have to be a custom proposition, if the average farmer is to be able to avail himself of this method of seeding.

If, therefore, such a system of seeding is to be adopted, to be of benefit to the average farmer it would either necessitate its operation by a large number of farmers on a co-operative basis or by some private individual or corporation willing to run the risk of making what must necessarily be a substantial investment remunerative. If the latter, it might necessitate a charge for seeding out of proportion to the benefits derived from fast seeding when conditions are ideal for germination of seed scattered from the skies.

There are, of course, advantages which could be credited to the seeding of grain fields by aeroplane. The speed with which it could be done and the large acreage which could be covered in a few hours would make it possible to put in a lot of crop when soil and moisture conditions are most receptive for the seed, but the factors in question and perhaps others would have to be first answered favorably before such a method could become general practice in Western Canadian grain fields.

It is predictable that a great deal more information will have to be secured on this subject before the farmers of this country will take the chance of adopting Mr. Stiles' proposal.

Will Visit Provinces

So much of this Coronation year has been spent by the King in London that next year will be more or less devoted to the provinces. Tentative arrangements have been made for His Majesty to visit Nottinghamshire and Lancashire, probably in the spring, though no dates have been fixed, reports the Daily Sketch. There will also be a visit to the Duchy of Cornwall.

Freedom Of Speech

Sir Edward Beatty Makes Appeal Before Students At Queen's University

Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and chancellor of McGill University, told a convocation gathering at Queen's University that "I am appealing for freedom of thought and speech, but within the limits of accurate knowledge, sound logic, a sense of responsibility and the ordinary amenities of public life in a civilized community."

Principal speaker at the convocation, Sir Edward was recipient of an honorary LL.D. degree. He recalled his appointment as chancellor of Queen's in 1919 and the fact he was chancellor of both Queen's and McGill from 1921 to 1923.

University heads had been charged with attempting to limit freedom of speech and repressing liberty of thought, Sir Edward asserted in discussing the subject. He pointed out the main part of his address. Nothing could be more untrue than the charges, he said.

"I have myself said, and I shall say again, that liberty of speech and thought are sacred, and nowhere is this truth more important than in the life of our universities," he continued. But Sir Edward contended there were limits within which these liberties must be exercised.

"It is equally foolish and equally wrong to proceed on the assumption that this freedom and these liberties do not carry with them the obligation of seeing that they are not destroyed by the intemperance and irresponsibility of us as individuals."

South Seas Mystery

Island Found Deserted Was Prolific

The schooner Denys ran into a lonely South Seas mystery recently on a visit to Malden Island, 1,500 miles south of Hawaii.

Malden, a prolific source of guano which reputedly brought fortune to a canny but wandering sea captain, was found deserted under what looked like unusual circumstances.

The captain of the Denys reported finding large warehouses filled with merchandise of every description, and numerous indications of a hurried departure by persons who supposedly had been harvesting wealth in the guano trade.

Malden was discovered in 1943 by an American whaling captain. He noted the wealth of guano and decided to return and exploit it.

In the meantime another whaling boat came along. Her captain, who the same idea but instead of delaying, threw his whaling plans overboard, sailed for Sydney and sold his discovery there for a comfortable sum of money.

The purchasing company worked the island for decades and was said to have amassed a great fortune. But the Denys found Malden inhabited only by pigs and sea birds. That's all anyone knows.

Boy Overcoming Handicap

Brave Lad Lost Both Arms In Accident Seven Years Ago

Warton, Ontario, has a 14-year-old boy who plays football, umpires baseball, is skilled at drawing, writes well, rides a bicycle and has his share of fun. Nothing unusual about that. But in this case the boy is Bert Rouse who lost both his arms as the result of an accident seven years ago.

"They can who think they can" is the motto Bert holds before himself. It was inscribed in a book written by W. R. Watson, business man who lost his arms early in life, and who sent Bert a copy of the work. When Bert was seven years old he grabbed wires carrying 6,000 volts while playing on a roof. Amputation of both arms was necessary.

Bert still has trouble eating and dressing but he thinks he soon will have mastered these art. He writes and draws with pencil held in his teeth. He even goes fishing, holding the pole between his chin and the side of his neck.

He has confidence in the future, and intends to make his own way. "Something will open up for me, I leave school," he said. "I know it will."

"Why have you no speedometer on your car?"

Streets Of Gold

Unique Tourist Attraction Is Furnished By Dawson City

Dawson City, Yukon Territory, boasts a unique and somewhat startling tourist attraction. Streets of gold! After the recovery of the main gold content of gravel originally washed down from high levels above the Klondike Valley by a process of hydraulic mining, hundreds of tons of waste or "tailings" in which a trace of gold still remains were used to grade the roads in and around the town. Of course, the actual gold content remaining is exceedingly small, but nevertheless the streets of Dawson are literally paved with gold.

Now a town of about a thousand souls, Dawson was in the heyday of the famous Klondike gold rush a city of about 40,000 population. The original miners delved for gold with picks and shovels and washed out their "pay dirt" in rockers or sluices. As the years passed, however, and in operation in the Klondike area and the salvage of gold has become a fine art. The variety of odds and ends picked up by these mammoth machines includes large quantities of old gold, bullets, cartridges, odd pieces of metal, in addition to the occasional watch, ring, knife, and guns of all sizes and shapes. At one time all this junk was simply thrown away, but a few years ago an engineer in charge of the recovery process in an experimental mood decided to treat several hundred pounds of bullets, shot and small pieces of metal. As a result of this experiment pure gold worth several hundred dollars was recovered, and now all bullets, shells, and bits of metal are carefully salvaged and treated to extract every last bit of wealth.

In common with other cities and towns Dawson has its parking and traffic problems. Scores of cars and trucks of all sorts clutter up the streets and trails at all hours. Many of the famous "creeps" in the Klondike gold fields can be reached by motor car over a network of excellent roads.

A Troopship De Luxe

British Soldiers Will Enjoy Liner Comforts On New Boat

British soldiers sent to distant stations in the Empire or on foreign service who are fortunate enough to be carried by the Troopship Dunera will travel in comfort, luxuries for such vessels.

The vessel, of 11,100 tons, has been built for the British India Steam Navigation Company at a cost of $2,500,000 and has just completed her trial trips on the Clyde.

The cabins are actually larger than the staterooms in many big liners. The vessel is completely equipped with system of ventilation. Kitchens are in the majority of the finest liners afloat. The troops' quarters are light and airy, the public rooms in the first-class are luxuriously furnished and for children.

Every cabin in the ship has a porthole, and every bathroom has a fan and a shower bath.

The Dunera will probably be engaged in the passenger cruising service when not required for transport purposes.

A Statue Of Livingstone

Has Found A Permanent Home In Southern Rhodesia

The life-sized marble statue of David Livingstone which for some years was housed at the Glasgow University and was last year shipped to Southern Rhodesia, has found a permanent home in the courtyard of the new Government offices which are being built in Salisbury. After a thorough cleaning it will remain clear for all time in the pure Rhodesian air.

The statue shows Livingstone in stride, spurning chains and manacles as the symbols of slavery. The sculptor—and by the way his name is something of a mystery—shows Livingstone's many interests by putting a bundle of papers in his left hand, and a sextant in his right, while a Bible peeps out of his pocket.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

ALICE STEVENS' RECIPES

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO HANG PICTURES IN YOUR HOME?

Do you have to look up at the pictures in your living-room? If you do, they are not hung correctly. The centre of the picture should be on a level with the eye, so that the picture can be seen to proper advantage. The centre of the pictures on the same wall, should be in a line rather than the tops or the bottoms.

Do your pictures lie flat against the wall or are they tilted out? They should be flat against the wall, otherwise the picture seems unnatural.

Do you see only the picture or is your attention divided between the wire and the picture? These should not be one wire formed into a V over a hook. There should be two wires used for heavy pictures and for small pictures no wire at all should be seen.

Do your pictures show up against their background or is there too much design in your wall covering? A small quiet design is best for wallpaper.

Do your pictures fit the wall space in which they are hung? A wide picture should not be placed in a small space between two windows.

Do you have too many pictures on your walls? It is much better to avoid overcrowding. Put some of the extra pictures away and get them out later for a change.

Do your pictures express your personality? You are judged by the pictures found in your home. Have you some copies of good prints? Do your pictures express beauty or tell a story?

Woollen Mill Opened

Rural Manitoba Town Establishes A New Industry

An event of more than passing interest, and one that may have important significance in the economic development of the West, took place at Sifton, Man., when the new factory in the town of Woollen Mills was officially opened by two Manitoba cabinet ministers.

The building, a 100 feet long, 40 feet wide, two stories in height, with a concrete boiler room attached. The factory is now fully equipped and is producing wool batts, yarn, men's socks, comforters, sleeping robes and will be producing blankets shortly. The wool washing and drying equipment is capable of a production of 200 pounds per hour. This large washing and drying capacity is one of the most important factors in that it enables the company to give very quick service on custom work, which is a large part of the business now being done.

The official opening took place on October 14th, when Hon. J. H. Griffith, Minister of Health and Public Welfare, officiating. He was accompanied by the Hon. W. R. C. Clubb, Minister of Public Works, and the Hon. R. Hawkins, Speaker of the House. The Hon. W. R. C. Clubb in his remarks complimented the directors on their initiative and enterprise. As he is the minister responsible for the administration of relief, he stated he was extremely gratified to see what had been done at Sifton to create employment and hoped that other points would take notice of this development, as he could see how the problem of unemployment could be solved in a great extent through the establishment of industry using the products of the farm.

Wasted Effort

The canvasser called at the voter's door and was duly invited inside. At once he went into his act.

He praised the candidate. He gave facts and figures. He presented new arguments, and old ones, all very reasonable.

The householder listened for an hour or more with rapt attention. Finally, the home-owner raised his hand.

"I'm convinced," he said. "There's no answer to your arguments. I'd vote for the watchdog of the treasury you represent only for one thing."

"What's that, sir?"

"My name is not on the voters' list."

To hatch the egg of a hen, a temperature of 104 degrees Fahrenheit sustained for a period of three weeks is necessary.

System Is Efficient

Poultry Being Raised Amid Sky-scrappers Of New York

City born-and-bred chickens are likely to replace the barnyard variety throughout most of the "built-up" area of the United States. Poultry raising amid the skyscrapers of New York is now being carried on with the full approval of the city's health departments. The fowls are incubated, hatched out, and spend the whole of their lives in small metal containers, and when they fail to lay a profitable number of eggs, they are killed, dressed and marketed all in the same building.

One large New York hotel supplies its dining rooms with broilers and eggs produced in its own plant, situated on the roof.

So efficient and labor-saving is this system that it is claimed that one attendant can care for 15,000 birds. Each hen is housed in a separate small metal box. When she lays an egg it drops into a collecting box—Armchair Chicken (London).

Piper Must Be Paid

Governments Have To Raise Money For Public Services

Nowhere is there any great upsurge of public demand to restrict or reduce services which municipal governments perform. Virtually every municipal body is constantly facing demands for increased services, but there seems never to go with that demand any realization that the cost of such expansion must be met. Frequently, too, original appropriations for new services may be small, but small commitments for larger expenditures in the future. If tax limits are to be imposed, it seems only equitable that there should be a limit, too, on the number, kind and quality of services a municipality is to furnish.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

I LEARNED TO BEAT ACID INDIGESTION

ONCE LIFE WAS MISERABLE. NO APPETITE... LITTLE SLEEP... UNTIL THE DOCTOR SAID 'ALKALIZE'

BUT NOW—AT THE FIRST SIGN OF ACID-INDIGESTION I USE PHILLIPS' AND I FEEL LIKE A NEW PERSON ALMOST IMMEDIATELY!

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkali with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoons of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel gas, nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own stress and avoid offense to others.

CROSSFIELD, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1937.

THIS week's issue of the Chronicle announces to the people of Crossfield and the large surrounding District, that the business men of Crossfield, under the organization of the Retail Merchants Committee of the Board of Trade, are launching a two days town-wide sale, Friday and Saturday of next week. This event is the first of its kind ever attempted in this district, and it is hoped that the success, to be measured in goodwill as well as in other things, will justify similar effort in future years.

Free show Friday from 3 o'clock on has been arranged while the Chronicle and other merchants are offering prizes listed in their various advertisements. In addition three grand prizes will be given away to shoppers on Friday and Saturday, the drawing for same will be made at Saturday night dance.

The Town Council has arranged with the Calgary Power Co. for a special run of power for the special light effects to be used on the streets in the business section, and the stores will be open both evenings.

When a whole town unites to prove that it has a real source of good merchandise and real service, the community as a whole can accept it as a sign of good times.

It is a demonstration of community spirit, of belief in the town. Such an event cannot fail to stimulate pride in the buying public—pride in their stores and—in their village. It will bring home to us all that our greatest profit will come from supporting our own stores and places of business on such an occasion as this. Success in this venture will spur on the local business men to further effort on providing values that are superlative.

We commend to the readers of this paper, this worthwhile attempt to promote goodwill between buyers and sellers, and to come out to Crossfield on November 5th., and 6th., and make the dollars go further than ever before.

Come on folks, you must have some ideas.

The Atlas Lumber Co. Ltd., local dealers for Wildfire coal, are behind the project, and it will be a great pity if the district has a cup and no place to put it.

YOUR LITTLE SAVINGS...
FINANCE
MORTGAGE LOANS

TENS of thousands of Canadian farms and homes benefit from first mortgage loans made possible by the accumulated savings of Life Insurance policyholders.

For every borrower, there are six thrifty people who supply the necessary funds.

This fact affords a striking illustration of the "double duty" performed by Life Insurance dollars. Not only do they ensure financial security for the men, women and children of Canada, but they also help to build and finance their farms and homes.

Life Insurance companies exercise the greatest care in the selection of properties upon which mortgage loans are made. To safeguard the savings of policyholders, security of principal and interest is and must always be the first consideration.

GUARDIAN OF CANADIAN HOMES

Mental Readjustment.

GARRET

Today, probably as never before, large numbers of the people require "Mental Readjustments," aye, nations also.

Looking at this world in general, over a period of years, visualizing the peoples of the world, and summing up my miserable self as well I have learned at least one thing: Peoples cannot. Nations cannot defy the laws of nature and survive. So, in mental readjustment, or even in national readjustment, we must start from there —

In many countries, today, we have unemployment of decidedly employable men. Letters to the papers, speeches on platforms have been made by the thousands, but the condition still exists.

In our own country of Canada, thoughts are turning to a new immigration scheme, as many are of the opinion that Canada is under-populated, etc., etc. Would it not be wiser, before even indulging in dreams of a new Immigration scheme for Canada, to put her men to work. You ask, how? By taking Canadian women off the slave market, by paying Canadian men wages compatible with maintaining a wife and children the making of homes, and from these homes a nation.

A nation is a nation dependent solely on her homes and her home life. Once let these be destroyed and the nation herself is destroyed.

The present industrial civilization as prevalent in Canada today, has and is destroying the "Home Life" of the nation, and moreover is against the laws of a beneficent nature. A continuance of this procedure and, sooner or later this fair land of ours will be the prey and the property of some other nation. Perhaps that may be in too remote future to discuss, but today, well—

We can, if we will take steps to cure our unemployment. By putting our men to work, taking the women off the slave market, building up homes and the nation, in fact stopping our foolish practice of defying nature's laws.

In conversation, an eminent British industrialist once said to me:

"Why do you not, in a country like Canada, which is so vast and its population so small, put your men to work, give them decent living wages, so that they may marry and settle down, letting the women do what God intended them to do; be makers of homes and mothers of children."

Of course, if the people of Canada, both men and women, like and appreciate the filthy and insidious propaganda of birth control, God help us, as a nation, and, enough said.

Sooner or later this platform will have to be followed, if Canada is to have a population, and also make it what she should be, a Nation of Homes.

New Trends in 1938 Radios

A survey of the developments that have been going forward in dozens of laboratories towards perfecting the 1938 radios for the home shows three distinct trends:

1. The developments of circuits and devices giving greater ease of station selection on the short wave International Broadcast bands.
2. Development of various forms of Automatic Station Selection for both standard and short wave broadcasts, in conjunction with remote control.
3. Perfection of circuits and devices which make the modern radio more truly than ever an indispensable instrument for homes that love music.

Owing to lack of space, we are holding the balance of this valuable article over for next week.

"It's not a question of price," said Ernest. "That's a fair enough offer considering that I started this business with nothing but a capital of twenty-nine dollars, my diploma from the MacGrudger College of Taxidermy, and six white mice. But, you see, Mr. Sloum, this is more than just a business to me. It is—"

Ernest blushed, "what you might call my life-work. Maybe you'll laugh at me, Mr. Sloum, when I tell you that the money I make here is really secondary to the pleasure I get out of doing jobs like this—"

He patted the name of the horse Tartar.

"Of course," he appended, "I don't make very much money. Barely enough to live on, as a matter of fact."

"Ernie," said Mr. Sloum, sadly, "I'm afraid you'll never be a trader. Now, if somebody came to me and wanted to buy my business do you think I'd tell 'em I was dragging one foot in the red ink? No, siree! I'd tell 'em I was making so much money I had to hire a man and boy to count it."

Ernest smiled.

"I guess I'm not much of a business-man," he admitted.

The shop bell tinkled.

"Excuse me," he said. "A customer, I hope."

He opened the door and permitted Mr. Sloum to pass into an atmosphere redolent with the perfume of parrots and poodles. A large, patently impatient lady was waiting at the counter. At first sight she looked like one of Ernest Bingley's more pretentious efforts in the field of taxidermy, for her ample, well-cushioned form was swathed in the brown fur of that prodigious but expensive little animal, the mink.

Ernest Bingley made a courtly bow.

"How do you do, Mrs. Wyncoop?" he said.

"Hello, Armina, how's tricks?" said Mr. Sloum.

She favored them both with a nod that was one-fifth of an inch from top to bottom, and hoary with frost.

"With I could stay and have chat about old times, Armina," said Mr. Sloum, a look of malicious geniality crinkling his face, "but I got to go and sell some shoes to the folks who're in patronizing home-town merchants. So long."

From Mrs. Wyncoop's arctic expression it was possible to glean the thought that if Mr. Sloum went to a most remote and torrid spot and remained there indefinitely it would be entirely satisfactory to her.

When the door had snapped at the robust head of the departing shoe-it, Mrs. Wyncoop said,

"Is he ready?"

"Indeed he is, Mrs. Wyncoop," said Ernest. "I shall be happy to have you inspect him. Will you kindly step into the studio?"

Mrs. Wyncoop unleashed a long-tongued and gazed upon the fruit of many weeks of painstaking work. She said nothing. She looked nothing. By not so much as the quiver of a chin did she signify approval, or disapproval. Ernest, regarded her expectantly, nervously. Still she made no comment.

Finally Ernest faltered, "Well, do you like him?"

In a throaty alto Mrs. Wyncoop said,

"There's a patch of hair on his—err—torse which needs smoothing."

"So sorry," said Ernest. He had ruffled the hair in scrambling off the horse. He smoothed the offending patch. He waited, but no word of encomium was forthcoming.

She replaced her long-tongued in its holster.

"Deliver him to The Pines immediately," she said, and turned to go.

"Excuse me, Mrs. Wyncoop," said Ernest. "I want to ask you something."

She expelled an icy monosyllable.

"What?"

"I was just wondering," began Ernest, beset by embarrassment, "if you would mind, that is, if you would be so good as to permit me to exhibit Tartar at the state fair next month—"

"Why, pray?"

"Well, you see," said Ernest, "I sort of thought I'd exhibit some of my work there. I've got an idea for an exhibit, a complete collection of all the birds and animals native to Iowa, mounted and arranged by me. There's a prize, you know, for the most interesting exhibit of Iowa products, and I thought I might have a chance to win it. I could use that hundred dollars, Mrs. Wyncoop. My collection is pretty complete, but it lacks a buzzard and a horse. I can get the buzzard easily enough, but horses are scarce—stuffed ones, I mean—and so—"

"You may not exhibit Tartar," said Mrs. Wyncoop. "I can assure you that Mr. Wyncoop will not permit you to. Good-day."

"I protest, Ernest," he is my work—the best thing I've ever done—and if you'd loan him to me—just for that week—"

"You will be paid adequately for your work," said Mrs. Wyncoop, "when you deliver it to The Pines. But if you attempt to show our property, you will hear from our attorneys, I promise you."

"But, see here, Mrs. Wyncoop, I need—"

"Good day to you," she cut in, and strode out through the pet shop toward her waiting limousine.

"Oh, look out!" cried Ernest. "You're an old witch," croaked a harsh voice.

Mrs. Wyncoop gave a sharp squeal of pain and terror.

As she passed his perch, a second hand parrot, an African gray, thrust out his horny beak and nipped her on the ear.

When she had gone, Ernest gave the parrot a peanut.

Then he returned to his studio and gave the roan coat of Tartar a final smoothing.

"Good-by old boy," he said.

He took an old olive drab army blanket from his bed and put it on the horse.

"Why," he asked aloud, "can't people be nice?"

With the question unanswered, he went out into his pet shop, and, somewhat morosely, doled out to the tropical fish their rations of ant-eaters, patted and fed the assorted puppies, love-birds, white mice and guinea pigs, then looked up and started down Main Street to see the expression about a truck for transporting Tartar to the ornate residence of Mr. Otis G. Wyncoop.

To go down Main Street was always a bit of an ordeal for Ernest Bingley. It meant running the gantlet of such social centres as the Daniel Boone Hotel and Ladder Company, Munn's Drug Store, the New America House, and Doc Griffin's Pool Room.

With his head in the air Ernest sailed swiftly past the fire house, unobserved, for its inmates were playing pinocle while hopefully waiting for a good, big fire. He skirted the drug store without incident; but, in the doorway of the pool hall, lounged two young men-about-town, from whose nostrils poured cigarette smoke in as steady a stream as if wet hay were smoldering inside them. They wore short-brimmed, trigger-men hats, and their complexions were imperfect. On spying Ernest they removed their jaunty headgear and swept the ground in deep obsequies.

"Greetings and salutations, Sir Ernest," said one.

"Hi at, 'ow is 'is Lordship to-day?" said the other.

Ernest, with a struggle, summoned a smile to his face.

"Hello, Joe. Hello, Chuck," he said, affably.

He hurried on, trying not to keep step with the Rogues' March they whistled after him.

In the lobby of the New America House (Rooms $1 and up) two men were embedded in worn leather chairs, idly watching the passing pageant of Main Street through the broad plate-glass window.

One of them was Harry Lewis, on the road for a New York hat house, and he was yawning, glumly, at the idea of being stymied for the night in Bear Falls when he might have been taking out that red-headed cigar-stick in Davenport.

He was an eagle-beaked, jockey-like man in tight-pepper-green suit and a Super-Wonder Derby (Fall Mall Style, $2.95, retail), and the stub of a cold cigar seemed a permanent part of his hairy hand.

The other lobby-sitter was a native son of the Ten Thousand, and he had the silvery hair, the intellectual brow, the dignity and garb of a senator. His name was Samuel P. Cooke, and he had been out of work for twenty years, although his wife hadn't. Messrs. Lewis and Cooke were exchanging recipes for winning the favor of ladies met casually on railroad trains.

"What do you do for fun in this burr?" inquired Lewis.

"I'll show you," said Cooke. "Here comes the town clown."

"The punk in the comic hat?" asked Lewis.

"Yep."

"Why are those two petty-larceny shels bowing to him like that?"

"They're kidding him."

"Some fun," grunted Lewis. "Does that pass for kidding in this dorp?"

"Just wait," promised Cooke. "I'll call him in. All you got to do is follow my lead. Get it?"

"I get it," said Lewis, looking wise and metropolitan. "Who is the sap?"

"Bingley's his name, Ernest Bingley," Cooke told him.

"Cuckoo?"

"No. That is, not exactly. He's bright enough when it comes to books and stuff like that," said Cooke. "But he's full of nutty notions."

"Such as?"

"Well, he thinks he's somebody."

"Who?" queried Lewis. "Napoleon?"

"Oh, no. He's not that way, an' ancestors."

"Well, ain't he?" asked Lewis.

"Sure. So have I," said Cooke. "Only I kept mine quiet. So to most of the folks around here, but Ernie Bingley's different. The boys don't like you to be different in this man's town."

"Yeah, I noticed everybody was pretty much alike around here," said Lewis.

As Ernest passed the hotel, Cooke rapped on the window with his imitation diamond ring, and beckoned Ernest to come in. Ernest hesitated, then started into the lobby.

"Now watch me kid the pants off him," whispered Cooke.

"How do you do, Mr. Cooke?" said Ernest Bingley. "Is there something I can do for you?"

"Why, yes, there is, Ernest, my boy," said Cooke, with exaggerated cordiality. "I want you to meet the Duke of Lumsaire."

Chinese Engine Driver Steals Muntion Cars From Japanese

A story of the capture of a train-load of Japanese munitions by a Chinese railway engineer was circulated by the Chinese Central News Agency.

The agency's Chengchow correspondent said Chinese locomotive drivers were forced to operate munitions trains southward from Peiping on the Peiping-Hankow Railway line and that one of them, taking advantage of absence of Japanese guards from his train, drove the entire train into the Chinese lines at Chengching-fu.

Jones: "Well, at least, she's in the fashion."

Brown: "Yes, but she's such a failure at it. In golf she hits nothing and in motorizing she hits everything."

When People Felt Safer

British Prime Minister Longs For The Old Days

Prime Minister Chamberlain yearned for the "good old days" in addressing the Association of British Chambers of Commerce at Manchester.

"Everyone, I think—certainly not least His Majesty's ministers—must look back with envy on the good old days when Britain was an impregnable island and possessed the only fleet of consequence in the world, and when men, if they cast upward an inquiring glance at the sky, did so only to ascertain what were the weather prospects."

"I think that public speaking must have been easier in those days when every word was not examined with a microscope to find in it meanings invisible to the naked eye, and when a man might address his own countrymen without being accused of directing his utterances—and even his reticences—at some other nation."

New Geographical Data

Two Thousand Square Miles Added To The Map Of Canada

Four hundred and forty-five years after the discovery of the North American continent by Columbus, exploration of portion of its terrain is still continuing, revealing new geographical data and land formations to scientists.

Two young Englishmen, R. J. O. Bray and F. D. Baird, have returned from the North, reporting that 2,000 square miles have been added to the map of the Canadian Arctic through their explorations.

The explorers, two of a party of Englishmen who have been camped on Southampton Island in Hudson Bay for the past two years, came out on the Mission ship, S. S. Therese, in September after a year in the Arctic, but intend returning "down north" again as soon as possible.

The party is sponsored by an English University and have no connection with Government survey parties. It was learned.

Mental Telegraphy

May Some Day Make War Impossible Thinks Psychologist

Extra-sensory perception—some people's apparent ability at mental telepathy—may some day and all wars, Dr. Charles F. Potter, author and psychologist, said in New York.

Referring to recent experiments of Dr. J. B. Rhine at Duke University which indicated that most persons were able to "read" symbols on cards which they could not see, Dr. Potter told the First Humanist Society:

"Consider, for instance, the possibility for internationally as the help to the technique of extra-sensory perception is fully worked out.

"Trained telepathists will supplant the present spy system. Without leaving their own country a little army of gift 'spies' will be able to discover the plans of the enemy's strategists and nullify those plans.

"Since the essence of success in war is secrecy, when secrecy is destroyed, war will be impossible."

Gave Up Large Estate

But Man Inherits Title Whether He Wants It Or Not

George Cecil Morris, 86, who "ran away from titles" 50 years ago, apparently has been caught by a baronetcy.

Whether he wants it or not, he becomes the head of an old and wealthy Welsh family as the heir to his nephew, Sir Tankerville Morris, who died a week ago in Wales.

Morris turned down the 3,000-acre estate and baronetcy which now falls to him.

"I don't want either," he declared. "I ran away from titles 50 years ago. I want to be left alone with my flowers."

But normally he will be the head of the family, though he need not use his title.

Placing The Blame

Mullingham was not great as a sportsman and he was out one day deer stalking in Scotland. He made a series of inexplicable misses, and, after failure at a very easy mark, he said to an attendant:

"Now, Donald, whose fault was it that time?"

Donald: "Well, the stag wasn't more than a hundred yards, and it's not my fault you missed him; and it wasn't the fault of the stag, for he stood still enough; and it's not the fault of the gun, for I kept it in a right good one; so I'll just leave it to you to think it over and find out whose fault it was!"

Canada's Doctors

Latest Statistics Show One To Every 1,084 Persons

Comparatively speaking, there are not so many doctors in Canada as there were years ago. That is, physicians and surgeons. At the beginning of the century there was one doctor for every 969 of the population. The proportion gradually decreased until the latest statistics show one in every 1,034. One reason vouchsafed is that the period of training has about doubled, making the course a long and an expensive one.

Although medical science has advanced like everything else, yet the lack of medical service in rural sections is one of the greatest drawbacks in the country to-day. The population has become more urban and less rural in general character and it is obvious that, with greater training to cover and more time consumed in travel it takes more doctors to attend to the needs of the country than of the city. There is one doctor for every 700 or so people in the large cities, but only one for every 1,800 in the country.

In England and Wales there is only one doctor in 1,368 of the population and in France one in 1,355. The situation is different in two other very advanced social service countries. In the United States there is one medical man in 798, whereas in Australia there is one in 1,373. About ten per cent. of the Canadian doctors were born, though not necessarily educated, outside of Canada—five per cent. in the British Isles or other British countries and 2½ per cent. in the United States, according to the census branch of the Dominion bureau of statistics.—Brandon Sun.

Record For Horses

Barney and Jerry, a team of six-year-old Belgians, weighing 4,350 pounds, broke the world's horse-pulling record at Ohio State Fair, Columbus, Ohio, September 1, when they pulled the last load of 3,925 pounds the required distance of 27.5 feet. This is equivalent to hauling 27 tons of granite block pavement. The winners are owned by Burley Moyer of Greensfork, Ind. Their record displaces the 3,900-pound pull made by the famous Michigan team, Rock and Tom.

"My face is my fortune, sir," he said, so the census-taker put her down as "on relief."

The annual re-union will be held on Wednesday, December 1st. Get ready, members.

Hey, Kids, A FREE Bike !!!!!

Boys! Girls! Do you own a bicycle? Would you like one? Why, of course you would.

Well now, gather around and listen to what I have to tell you, it will be worth your while, and you can tell mother and dad all about it after we get through.

On November 5th and 6th, that's two days, a Friday and a Saturday, the business men of Crossfield are putting on what is called a Goodwill Shopping Sale. That means prices are lowered for these two days, prizes will be given away and attractions will be provided.

Now, here is all you have to do. Tell Mother and Dad to come to Crossfield on these days. Buy things for the house, saving money on the many bargains, and then, for every fifty cents they have spent, they will be given a ticket, which entitles them to a chance on three valuable prizes.

The prizes have been chosen so everyone in the house can have a share; and here they are: 1st, a General Electric 5-tube 1938 radio, with batteries and aerial, all ready to go to work. Now wouldn't that be nice to have in your home?

2nd, one C.C.M. Bicycle, can be had in either boys or girls model. Now, how about you being the lucky boy or girl?

3rd, to help mother out when company comes, a case (26 pieces) of Oneida Tudor Community Plate, Splendid for any table.

Here's good news! We have learned that Friday, November 5th, is Teachers' Convention day. What does that mean? It means that all schools will be closed on that date, so you can easily have mother and dad bring you to town, and don't forget, Friday, commencing at 3 p.m., and running until about 10 p.m., is a free picture show. To get into the show, all you have to do is ask any of the merchants to give you a ticket, which they will gladly do, free, present it at the U.F.A. Hall door and in you go. It's a swell racing story picture, and there will also be a clever Monkey comedy and one other travel picture.

Now you'll be in. won't you, pals, bringing mother and dad. Wouldn't it be awful if the hall stayed empty all day because no mothers, daddies or children came in.

Let's pack the hall full every time. There will be four complete shows. (see the rest on page 3)

The season's styles in men's clothing not only displays smart appearance but also give more comfort and satisfaction to the wearer. A fashionable suit may be of one, two or three button model and either single or double breasted. Plain or full rope shoulders are still worn to some extent. Lower piped pockets on the suit coat give a very trim effect and are convenient. The "Talon" zipper fastener on the trousers is gaining immense popularity and is fast placing the button enclosure in the discard.
